DEDICATION

In an all too impersonal world, it is rare to find a teacher who veers away from the traditional student-teacher relationship to form a warm, friendly, and meaningful rapport with his students. This man recognizes the importance of the individual and helps him in his search for identity. His services exceed the ordinary boundaries of the classroom to expand our interest and knowledge.

This man has given much of his time and self to us, and it is with pride and gratitude that we dedicate the 1970 Lion's Roar To ...

MR. RALPH G. PENDLETON

"... The importance of the individual ..."

FROM THE EDITORS

Carrying on the yearbook tradition ...

In a world of ever increasing population, we would think that people would have to get closer. We are constantly getting closer physically, but not mentally. In school, we come in contact with so many people, yet we rarely take the time to get to know them.

Happiness and joy come from other people. Why, if we realize this, are we so involved in ourselves?

Let us unite and be one ...

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

"All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players:
They have their exits and their entrances
And one man in his time plays many parts ....."

Shakespeare—"As You Like It"
Act II, Scene VII

The roles of a principal ... the roles of students seem to be diverse ... particularly in this era which has brought so much turbulence to my generation and yours.

In actuality and upon reflection, while our roles obviously are different, our goals seem to be identical. We both seek to provide and to have an education which will supply you with the necessary tools for success.

Admittedly our approaches are different at times. Youth today is generating much change ... we shall perhaps never see again the conservatism and complacency of my generation. For our part we sympathetically try and understand the seething turmoil and to reconcile it with an effective process needed to bring about change.

Above all the din and turmoil comes forth clearly to me a message of confidence. Years of association with young people gives me a sense of pride and confidence in them ... and for this graduating class a pride in your accomplishments and a confidence that the changing scene will bring you on stage to make a successful conclusion to the play of today.

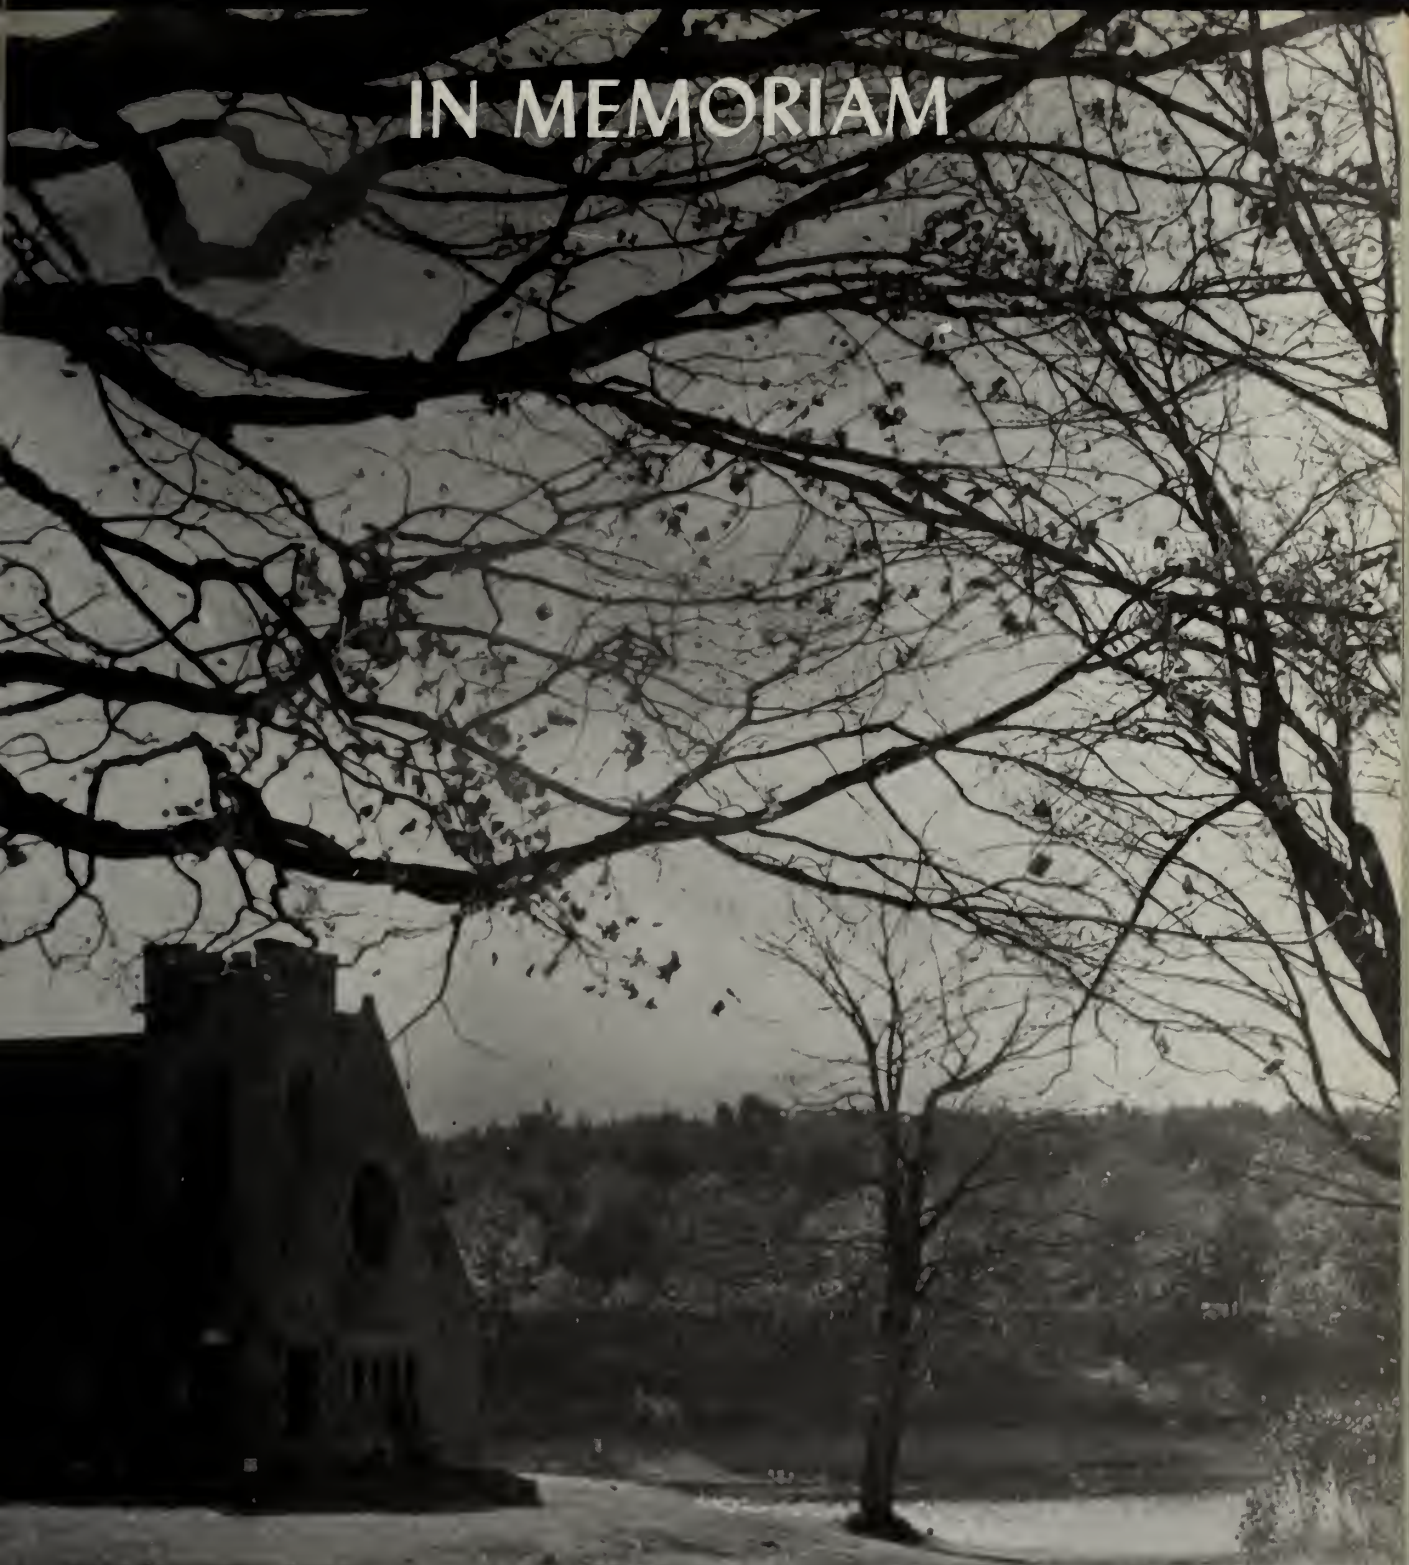
IN MEMORIAM



A spirit of friendliness, an attitude of helpfulness—one could not go through life with better characteristics. They seem to epitomize goals in life which are the mark of success.

Certainly these were qualities presented by our former school nurse, Miss Evelyn Lemay. In her everyday actions, she was dedicated to making life a little easier for all of us. A cheerful word, sound advice, medical assistance . . . all tradition of her association with us. One could visit her office secure in the knowledge that helpful assistance would be given . . . assistance always marked by a cheerful note.

Her passing saddened all of us . . . and yet made us aware of her meaning to us. It is with recognition of her contributions to our well-being, and the manner in which she made these contributions that we dedicate this page, "In Memoriam," to our former school nurse, Miss Evelyn Lemay.

EVENING GAZETTE June 5, 1970

Dianne Lamberto, 1970 graduate of W.B.H.S., has discovered a miracle drug which rivals the fountain of youth. She will test it on her fellow classmates in the near future.

STARLIGHT GAZETTE June 5, 2525

FLASH!!! A news bulletin from the moon!!!

The 1970 graduates of W.B.H.S. ARE alive and well and living on the moon 555 years after the universally known scientist, Diane Lamberto, discovered and tested her miracle drug on her fellow classmates. This drug enables them to live forever. Because of this, the U.S. government asked them to be the pioneers of moon colonization. Before departure all members were given thorough training so that their colony would be an efficient one.

Christopher Ramsdell and Raymond DeSanti were the pilots on the historic journey. Patricia Howard, Christine Lajoie, Diane Raczynski, and Deborah Riganati served as space hostesses.

Upon arrival a team of specially trained doctors and nurses examined the pioneers for any signs of physical or mental weakness. Doctors Alan Stark and Robert Chapman worked with nurses Mary Jean Gonyer, Pamela Lonnroth, Deborah Arslen, Barbara Bello, Nancy Amsden, Nancy Hanks, Sandra Naylor, Deborah Cronin, Janet Harris and Mary Tremblay in setting up a clinic for any emergencies and conducting first-aid classes.

A government was organized which is based on the traditional democratic style. Richard Dacri was chosen President; Michael McManus, Vice President; Linda Dymek, foreign ambassador to other worlds; and Richard Bjorklund, state police chief.

Frank Alexander, Richard Henchy, and Tom Fancy were the master engineers of the building project. Jeff Paulin and John Genelli drew up plans for all the buildings and Richard Carlson and Lynn Dumont designed their interiors. David Mercurio, Michael DePatsy, and Mark Casamasina were the foremen for the massive project, and Steven Rawson was the electronics engineer. The lumber was supplied by David Whitney.

One of the first buildings to be completed was the West Boylston Memorial School. The staff has been hired and they are now setting up programs for all who wish to further their education. Dennis Cavan, Carol O'Connor, Donna Lajeunesse, Sheila Hennessey, Gretchen Klar, Mark Beaupré, Beverly Cameron, Sharon Jernstrom, Judy Orciani, Darlene Pichierri, Margaret Richardson, Marcia Hjelm, Jean Rheaume, Dana Wilson, Joyce Kirk, Theresa Graves, and Ronald Wilmot were the teachers chosen.

Another building that has been completed is a mammoth insurance corporation. The ingenious businessmen are Joseph Nedder, Bradford Campbell, Kenneth Noyes, and Jeffrey White. Their staff of efficient secretaries are Cheryl Carpenter, Arlene Mattson, Kathy Flynn, Charlotte Nasis, Linda Ramstrom, Linda Keith, Dorothy L'Ecuyer, Theresa McQuiston, Carol Cote, Jean Larrabee, Nancy Morris, Gloria Clark, Jeanne Graboski, Shirley Bottomly, Bonnie Kinnie, Maxine Rogers, and Maureen McCarthy. Other outstanding employees are David Jenkins—salesman, Kevin Connor and John Bennett—accountants, Victor Mercandante and Everett Messier—data processors, and Thomas Raymond and Stephen Osterberg—computer programmers.

Timothy Renzoni, Robert Caola, Dennis Novia, Kenneth Parker, Alan Mattson, Robert Carlson, Clifton Handy, Robert Scales, and Richard Borjeson designed and control the armed forces, which consist of intricate computerized equipment. IBM cards inserted into the machines will set the equipment into action against any enemy the pioneers might encounter.

Kent Amons, Ronald Borjeson, Francis Ward, William McGuiggan, Steven Amons, and Dean Wolfe are building the space vehicles for local transportation. Their vehicles are completely equipped and will prevent any accidents. Computerized steering relieves a great deal of pressure from the driver.

Carla Hjelm, the esteemed lunar newspaper editor, has added a new dimension to her newspaper. She is now featuring a weekly series of chapters from a book written by historian Janet Freeman on the progress the pioneers have made thus far. Carla's chief printer of her paper is Robert Waite.

Susan Spencer, the outstanding artist, is director of the lunar art museum. She has two fine teachers, Robert Flink and Ann Severance, instructing the pupils in the arts. Several of the masterpieces were designed by Linda Lutka.

Many of the classmates have turned to specialized fields. Holly Ramsey has developed an art of lunar cuisine that very few people can surpass, making use of herbs and spices exclusive to the moon's surface. She buys her herbs from the Scanlon Brothers, Timothy and William, who are experts in the field of agriculture. Nina Lamothe adds to the beautification of the moon. She has designed the hairstyles that are so popular on all the girls up there at this time. Kristine Maki is the noteworthy dental hygienist for the pioneers. Jane Balderelli and Margaret Judd specialize in the field of x-ray technology while Linda Campbell and JoAnne Sheldon are psychologists. Gail Hanson is a medical technologist. Greg Roberts, the community pharmacist, has opened the first drug store on the moon. He has been assisted greatly by marine biologist, Robert Knox, who is studying a new form of bacteria in the Sea of Tranquility. Peter Gardner has aided the colony greatly in the area of physics. Andrea Tyndall, a newcomer to the class, is a zoologist. She is collecting specimens for study on lunar animal behavior. Glen Anderson has developed a sardine factory. He hired Gary Metcalf as his produce manager and Paul Monroe and Robert Antonio as department captains. Steven Conforti works the machines that capture the fish. James Skantz is the friendly plumber for the growing community.

Paul Mikolson has finally found his pro skiing team, Charles Johnston and Diane Seuss. Paul has started to form a ski shop on the moon and he and his team agree that the craters of the moon can be just as challenging as the mountains of earth.

Also in the sports scene is James Meola, manager of the famous basketball team the Moon Bounders starring Albin Hunt and Donald Shepard. Because of the lack of gravity on the moon, no one can beat Al out of the rebounds.

The pioneers are in the process of making a full-length movie on their prosperous community. Stephen Leslie wrote and is producing the movie. Douglas Brown is lighting manager and Paul Dupont is the sound director. Douglas Urquhart is creating the inspirational background music for what is to be an interesting and educational movie. This movie will soon be shown for all earthlings to view.

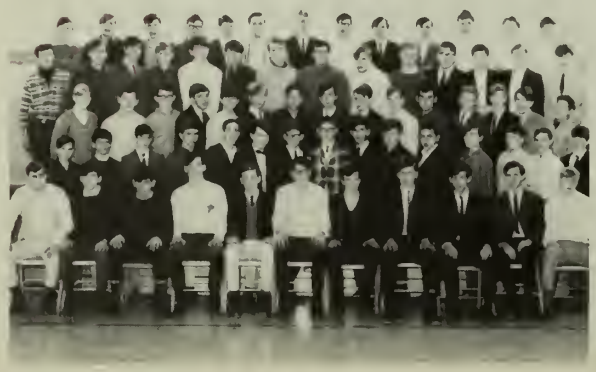
CLASS HISTORY

"Those Were the Days My Friend"

"Let's drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die." Who's ready to die? We just graduated a little while ago. Remember those years—the songs, the clothes,—didn't the styles change, though? When we finally became seniors, they let the girls wear slacks. I wonder what the kids get to wear now? And when I think back to the expressions we used! "A-duh," "Oh brother." Didn't we use that in our freshman year? Yes, that is right. Who did we have for class officers? There was a girl president for the first two years, wasn't there? Yes, it was Darlene Pichierri. Ah, let's see now, who were the others? If I remember correctly there was Sandy Naylor as treasurer, Sue Spencer was secretary, and Lynne Dumont with Richard Dacri as our student council representatives. Didn't you forget our vice president? That was Gary Metcalf, wasn't it? Yes, he played soccer, too. That's right, and there were others.

Here it is in the old Lion's Roar. Those who played soccer are named: G. Metcalf, J. Nedder, R. Flink, D. Wilson, D. Whitney, G. Anderson, J. Paulin, F. Alexander, S. Leslie, S. Rawson, and C. Handy. What about cross country? Our runners were R. Wilmot, R. Chapman, and J. Meola. We can't forget field hockey, come on now. Let's name some players. There was C. O'Connor, G. Klar, M. Richardson, D. Cronin, D. Seuss T. Graves, S. Hennesey, and of course J. Harris. Weren't some of those last games cold, though? Sometimes on those last games, it began to snow. No wonder we had to move indoors then. Sports sure didn't stop there did they, Albin? Our great season for basketball began then. Besides you, who else bounced that ball? D. Shepard, M. McManus, R. Chapman, R. Flink, and M. Depatsy. Not only was that ball bouncing at night, but in the daytime also, with the girls' basketball team. D. Riganati can tell us who played for the girls. There was D. Cronin, C. O'Connor, J. Harris, A. Severance, J. Freeman, J. Kirk, T. Graves, M. Judd, L. Dymek, and Rigs.

OH YA, those were the days, weren't they. Our enthusiasm had just begun! But we were so small then and the upperclassmen were really big. Yes, but sometimes, when you got to know them, you didn't feel that way, especially if you were on a team with them. They could be really understanding. Take the gym team, for instance. There was no thought as to what class you belonged to, it was your ability as a team member. Among those lucky people were S. Naylor, G. Klar, C. O'Connor, P. Lonnroth, D. Wilson, P. Monroe, J. Meola, and C. Handy. That was a pretty big event of the year. Unfortunately, it did not remain a co-ed team due to the lack of a coach for the girls.



Gee, just about then we began to get little thoughts of summer. Before that, there were some of us who had thoughts of playing tennis, golf, track, baseball, and softball. On those warm days, one could see D. Novia, and J. Meola out on the baseball field. J. Nedder was manager of the team. The girls who played softball were J. Orciani, J. Kirk, and G. Klar. I remember seeing B. Knox, D. Shepard, S. Leslie, M. Depatsy, D. Whitney, T. Renzoni, R. Wilmot, C. Handy, R. Carlson, F. Ward, and D. Wolfe, all come running around the field, shaping up for their track meets. Our class had only one member on the golf team, R. Chapman. Was Everett on the track team? No, he was a tennis player along with S. Leslie, and P. Gardner.

By the time we were sophomores, the upperclassmen had begun to accept us. They led us to believe that anyway.

We started the year off with a campaign for the election of our new officers. We voted in the auditorium that year, didn't we? Yes, let's see now who won for that year. Darlene Pichierri made president. We had a new vice president, Sharon Jernstrom. Susan Spencer stayed on as secretary, and for student council, we elected Richard Dacri and Lynne Dumont. Sophomore year—that's the year we had biology. Does anybody remember the frog races we had in Miss Zottili's class before we dissected them? I would like to see you try and race them afterward. I wonder if Lynne Dumont remembers that bookmark she received one day in her book? You mean that frog leg? How could she forget a thing like that? Did that really happen? Yes, weren't you in our class Joyce? No, I was in chorus that period. Who else was in chorus that period with you? P. Lonnroth, D. Lajeunesse, E. Sklarz, J. Orciani, C. Lajoie, J. Larrabee, M. Judd, J. Freeman, M. Richardson, T. Graves, M. J. Tremblay, D. Raczynski, J. Harris, G. Clark, C. Hjelm, L. Ramstrom, J. Nedder, T. Renzoni, D. Mercurio, J. Smith, B. Campbell D. Jenkins, D. Whitney, M. Cassamasina, and J. Kirk.

Didn't Carla Hjelm and Tommy Fancy get the best grades? Yes, they were the ones that led the class of '69 down the aisle to graduation. We were juniors then. That was the hardest, but most enjoyable year, excluding senior year. In October, we got our class rings; what a day that was! The class officers changed that year. Greg Roberts became president, and Deb Cronin became our vice president. Sandra Naylor remained treasurer for all four years. Patty Howard was secretary. Lynne Dumont and Darlene Pichierri were representatives for Student Council. They gave a great deal of time to many projects, our biggest project was the Junior Prom, Arabian Nights. It was an event which many of our students put a great deal of time into. The Queen of the prom was Nancy Powers.

When I think of the Junior year, I think of Mr. Anderson's class and our song sessions. One of the most unforgettable songs was "Old Kentucky." Michael McManus was our infamous song leader.

At the end of the year, we had elections again. Our senior officers were Greg Roberts, president, Deb Cronin, vice president, Sandy Naylor, treasurer, and Susan Spencer, secretary. Richard Dacri and Darlene Pichierri were student council representatives. Senior year—the busiest year of them all; especially with the play, the ball, and all the fund-raising projects. Our play was called Hope Springs Eternal Robert Knox and Sharon Jernstrom were the leads. The play went off well, don't you think? The cast was a hard-working group. Our Ball, "Sagittarius," was held at the Holden House, a fine evening before a big holiday. The Queen was Sharon Jernstrom, her court was a lovely group of ladies, Nancy Morris, Deb Cronin, Chris Lajoie, and Sue Spencer.

That was the beginning of a great year, and many more succeeding it. Weren't those the days, my friend—

WE THOUGHT THEY'D NEVER END!

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY INSTALLATION

This year, as in the past, the installation of new members into the National Honor Society was the most outstanding scholastic event of the year. A solemn and stirring march followed by speeches on the qualities of Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service provided the proper setting for the induction of new members into the Society.

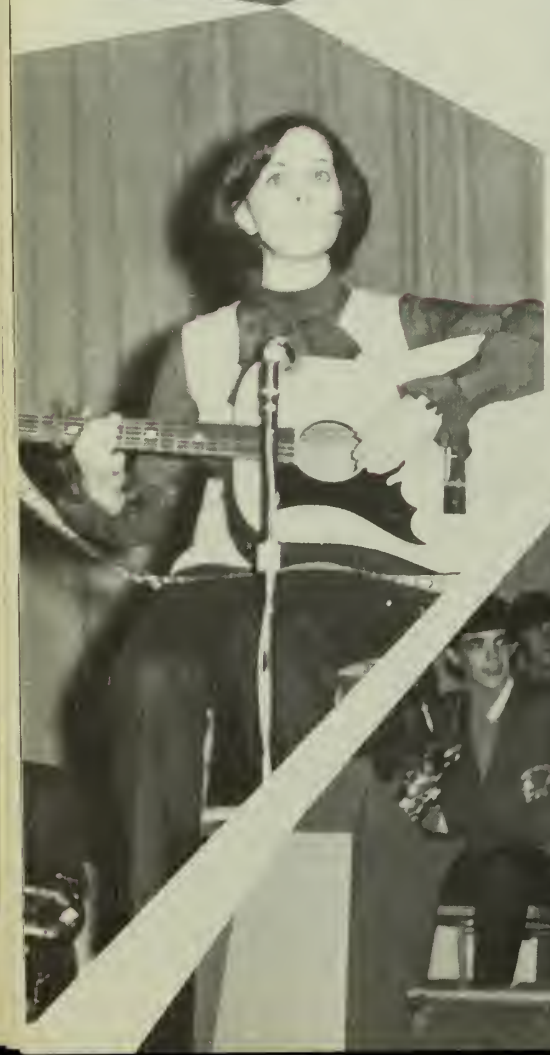
FALL FROLICS

The fourth annual Fall Frolics opened its curtain Friday, November 21, 1969. The show featured the various talent acts of the students. Master of Ceremonies was David Jenkins. The show was under the direction of Mr. Herbert Maynard. Such acts as comedy teams, dances and singing provided for a most entertaining evening for all who were in attendance.



DRESS CODE

For the first time, girls have been given the privilege of wearing slacks and boys are able to have long hair, mustache, and jeans. The new dress code, besides being practical, has created a more comfortable and relaxed atmosphere in school.

Many long hard hours of work

The Webo, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Bositis and its editor Carla Hjelm, is published six times a year. Each issue provides a comprehensive coverage of extra-curricular activities, sports events, club meetings, and other school news of interest.

A school newspaper requires a substantial cooperative effort on the part of the art, photography, and business staffs, as well as from its reporters. The Webo strives for improvement by attending local journalism conferences and competing with other high schools.

The Music Department presented its annual Spring Concert in May. The band, dance band, Jr. high band, chorus, majorettes, and other selected individuals, as well as Mr. Maynard, deserve much applause for an excellent performance.
